

Character Development Workshop: I Turned My Teacher into a Creature

Overview:

In this workshop, children will use their imagination and creativity to transform their teachers into creatures. Students will create monster characters based on traits that might annoy their own class teachers. Throughout the workshop, children will learn about characteristics and how they can influence character design. These creations will be placed within a story framework where children can decide on the ending. Additionally, they will learn drawing techniques and color theory to bring their creations to life.

Suitable for: KS1 and KS2 children

Duration: 45 minutes

Workshop Objectives:

1. Foster Creativity: Encourage students to express their ideas through character design.
2. Teach Characteristics: Help children understand how traits shape character development.
3. Enhance Artistic Skills: Introduce basic drawing and color techniques.
4. Promote Literacy: Develop storytelling skills through the creation of narrative frameworks.

Materials Needed for Kids:

- Sketch Paper: For drawing their monster designs.
- Pencils and Erasers: For sketching and making adjustments.
- Colored Pencils, Markers, or Crayons: For adding color to their monster creations.

Alignment with the National Curriculum:

This workshop supports various areas of the National Curriculum, particularly within the subjects of English and Art:

- English (Writing and Spoken Language):
 - Character Analysis: Discussing traits helps students understand how characters can be developed through their actions and behaviors.
- Creative Writing: Students will brainstorm, plan, and create stories featuring their monsters, enhancing their narrative skills.
- Art and Design:
 - Drawing Techniques: Children will learn about shapes, features, and proportions as they design their monsters, building their artistic skills.
 - Color Theory: Students will explore the emotional impact of color choices, fostering an understanding of how color can convey mood and personality.
- Personal, Social, and Health Education (PSHE):

- Empathy and Understanding: By reflecting on their teachers' traits, students will engage in discussions about feelings and relationships, promoting a positive classroom environment.

This workshop nurtures artistic abilities while promoting imaginative thinking and a playful exploration of character development, making it an enriching addition to your classroom activities!
